Important Notice: (following queries from parent's consultations).

The white reading record is for you to make any comments you think are appropriate about your child's reading. Each page is for a week. Please ensure that plastic wallets are in book bags everyday as we may need to reassign books to others (following a quarantine period of 48 hours) or assess children's progress.

We have been singing songs to help count forwards and backwards

We have been finding one more and one less than a given number

We are brilliant at getting our wet suits on and off as well as learning how to hang them up and get our wellies on the right feet. The story 'Alfie's Feet' by Shirley Hughes helped us decide which foot was which.

We enjoyed the rainy weather this week especially finding the puddles on the big yard!

We enjoyed it so much that in our little yard we began to make our own puddles.

Keeping our watery theme was exciting as the children encountered a sensory experience of potion making with different materials. Gold glitter and cream flowers caused quite a stir as well as the citrus smells of oranges, limes and lemons.

We've been finding half!

Can you cut, colour or split a shape in half by drawing a line?
